SUBMISSION DEADLINE: MAY 15, 2025

This conference highlights the importance of investing in California Probation officers and staff so they can be best equipped to protect communities and connect those in the justice system to transformative rehabilitation.

CPOC and CPOC Foundation are excited to announce the Call for Presentations for our upcoming 2025 statewide conference INVEST IN PEOPLE, INVEST IN SAFETY! This transformative training event will help educate and elevate probation professionals throughout California and is designed to equip attendees with the knowledge, skills, and tools necessary to continue to enhance probation work in California.

We invite practitioners, researchers, and academics to submit proposals for presentations that explore innovative, evidence-based, and data-driven approaches to advancing the probation profession. Proposals should focus on strategies that enhance outcomes for individuals involved in the justice system and strengthen the role of probation in community safety. This conference will highlight the importance of investing in California Probation officers and staff so they can be best equipped to protect communities and connect those in the justice system to transformative rehabilitation. By investing in probation, we strengthen the foundation of our justice system. By investing in those under supervision, we break cycles of recidivism and build safer communities for the long term.

Presentation Topics:

Adult Probation Continuum: Programs that help enhance probation work. Proven, promising, and innovative programs, job training, victim services, and educational pathways, including reentry programs and services. This includes evidence-based, research-informed, and/or data-driven approaches, as well as promising practices aimed at improving supervision strategies and enforcement mechanisms to support successful outcomes.

Juvenile Justice Continuum: Proven or promising strategies across the juvenile justice continuum, can include topics in prevention, intervention, diversion, wardship, detention or reentry. Topics may cover education, community supervision, partnerships, institutional management, SB 823 implementation, vocational programming, staffing, and youth development. Preference for evidence-based, research-informed, and/or data-driven approaches.

Court Services, Pretrial, Prop 36 Implementation, CalAIM Justice-Involved Initiative: Innovative strategies or programs in court services, pretrial programs, Prop 36 implementation and strategies around CalAIM justice-involved initiative. Topics may include effective pretrial programs, alternatives to detention, best practices in court services, and approaches to implementing Prop 36. Additionally, CalAIM justice-involved initiatives and their impact on individuals and strategies for improving outcomes through cross-system collaboration.

Staff development, Recruitment and Retention: Strategies and/or practices to strengthen probation department staffing through effective recruitment, retention, and professional development. Topics may include innovative training, leadership development, employee wellness, and evidence-based approaches to workforce stability.

Technology/AI: The role of technology, artificial intelligence (AI), and data analytics in enhancing probation practices. Topics may include AI-driven tools, data-informed decision-making, case management innovations, electronic monitoring, and emerging technologies that improve efficiency and outcomes. Submissions may also explore the ethical considerations and research-based evidence surrounding the use of these tools, highlighting emerging practices that demonstrate measurable impact on probation outcomes.

Domestic Violence: Supervision practices in adult and juvenile arenas which address unique needs of domestic violence offenders, victims, and families. Providing approval, oversight and regulation of Batterer Intervention Programs. Current research identifying outcome studies and collaborative court processes.

Foster Care: Efforts to enhance services, treatment, and youth/family engagement. Effective strategies to improve outcomes for youth in foster care involved in the justice system as well as nonminor dependents with a focus on the following topics: child and family teaming, wraparound, Family First Prevention Services Part I implementation, resource family recruitment & retention efforts, partnerships with foster family agencies and/or short term residential treatment program (STRTP) providers.
